GAELS WANT FREEDOM

SCOTS IN LONDON HEAR HAR. ANGUE AGAINST GOVERNMENT.

Country Sick of the Union and Would Three Off the Brutal English Yoke -Flory Orator Bays Gools Are in Danger of Being Crushed Scotland Wants a Nation's Freedom-Anglicized Scotsmen No Use to Gaels. The Gaels in London met recently a colemn conclave to discuss the future of "Gaeldom," which is Gaelic for Scotland.

There were two score of them, of when nearly half were "bonnie lass" s, and they gathered in the fine old Scots Corporation Hall in Crane court, Fleet street, where, beneath the massive royal arms, such phrases were hurled about as "feudal system of the Sassenach," and "hideous ia-brie of a foreign power."

Mr. Gillies, a Gael who has crossed the Tweed, read a paper in English on the Gaelic movement, in which, with a gravity worthy of Bernard Shaw, he scarified his brother "Anglicized Ecots," bitterly lamented the densitionalization of the modern Highlander, and made a fierce appeal for the revival of the Gaelie language, the re-Gaelicization of Scotland and the throwing off of the brutal English yoke.

He referred with dreadful scorn to a mowspaper which had ventured to make fun of the Gaelic movement. But he was just as scoriful of the Scottish newspapers-"or rather, the English papers published in Scotfand," as he called them.

He lashed those "Anglicized Scotswho, he said, take only a sentimental interest in the Gaelic movement, and give it "spasmodic and unreliable" eid. He declared that the ople in Scotland who do not speak Gaelie are only fit to be called "North Bellone, and are "on a par with the Chinese soldiers at Weihaiwei, who med mongrel pidgin English.

The English Government, composed of Anglicized Scotsmen, were no use to the Gaels, and would crush the Gaels out, imprison or deport them. if they thought they were in earnest, The Gaelic language is, he added the "secret power," by which Gaeldon would forge the weapons which would break into as many fragments as a potter's vessel the hideous fabric of s foreign power.

"Scotsmen are sick of the union and wish to be free." he cried, and he looked forward to the time when they would achieve the national indesendence for which Bruce fought and Tallace died.

Inclinet in Plants

Climbing plants have two opposing eastheds of describing spiral growth. The plants that turn to the right in morthern bemisphere reverse this ad in the noutbern bemienbern and srefore, for the sake of consistency. E may be preferable to describe the tinde of aptrel tendency as requestively "clockwise" and "counter clockwise," which latter can be short ened to "counterwise." The honey-duckle and the hop turn "clockwise," This the convolvulus and the scarlet er bean twine "counterwise." Expartments made by growing scarlet runper beans in opaque cylinders, to disver whether the deviation of the dwist was innate or merely from the breeties of the light, disclosed the East that the plant possesses an inclination resembling the instinct of animals, of preceeding in a given direction, and sts any attempt to force it other-The state of the s

Witchcraft In the Nineteenth Century. Most people believe that witchcraft among civilized people ended when the "Balem witch mania" ran its course and died out in the year 1032. Definition of a Sex Car.

Not all the instruction given to young the house. railroad men is intensely serious. The following definition was recently offered to a beginner: "A box car belongs to the fowl family. During the spring and summer months it can be found in nearly every part of the country, its favorite haunts being rallway tracks, and it is easy to capture. In er fowls, it goes into hibernation or dies to other climes. Scattered instances are known where specimens are captured during the autumn months. A lasso or a well greased switch crew is sometimes used in snaring the box car, but main strength is the best weapon. In any case the hunter must be very wary, as any noise like the fluttering of a warbill will make the quarry disappear. Quay and His Letters.

The late Senator M. S. Quay of Penn. sylvania kept all the letters his constituents wrote to him asking for favors. He had stacks of them when his last fight for the senate came along. Then he sorted out the letters, eliminating those from people who were dead, and on the back of each letter wrote:

Dear John or Bill-Do you remember when you wrote me this letter and do you remember that I did what was asked? I want your help now in my fight for the senate. Can I have it?

The politicians in Pennsylvania say those letters, mailed to the original senders with Quny's request on the backs of them, had as much as any one thing to do with Quay's winning his fight.

Fra Diavolo was the nickname given Michele Pezza, a celebrated renegade monk and Italian, brigand, who was born in 1760. It should be noted that the opera of Auber has nothing in common with Fra Diavolo but the name. Pezza was first a stocking weaver. then a soldler in the Neapolitan army, then a soldier in the pope's service, and finally he became a monk, but was expelled. In the mountains of Calabria Pezza took to brigandage, and such was his notoriety and so great were his cruelties that the people nicknamed him Fra Diavolo. It is consoling to know that he was eventually executed

The big advances in the French. markets during the week corroborate at least apprehension as to the outturn. The French crop, as well as the crop in all other countries, is about three weeks late, and stocks. of wheat and flour in France are getting very small. France, not being an importing country to any extent except in case of important shortage in the domestic crop, has no stocks of foreign wheat to turn towhen necessity arises, and at the present time a delay of a few weeks in her own crop being ready for use would cause her to make a sudden demand for wheat from outsides time, and it is not surprising that which would quickly excite the whole world's markets. There are fresh rumors that the French import duty have meant for the Empire in general will be suspended temporarily so as and for British Columbia in particu- to admit of importing freely for immediate requirements: Unfavorable weather is still experienced in Germany and the United Kingdom; causing delay in the seasonable progress of the crops and probably co casionally some deterioration in prosthat the Dominion Government might | pects. In some districts there has not been kny thing like sufficient rain and the crop is very poor; in many instances a practical failure. In other parts: seasonable rains have fallen within the last few weeks and crops are doing well for this backward and abnormal season. On the whole the crop is very spotted, for even in the best districts there are very poorfields. Everywhere the crop is from two to three weeks late and on the whole it is futile to expect anythings larger than a low average yield. The final outcome, of course, depends. very much on the weather to follow. Manitoba wheat is firm. A Hen Deceiver

An ingenious person, according to an exchange, has invented what he calls a "hen deceiver," for the purpose of promoting industry among the ladies of the farmyard. The apparatus is simple and consists of a box for a nest, with a trap door for a bottom, so that when the hen lays an egg it drops through into a receiver underneath and the door closes automatically. When the hen gets up to look for the egg and finds none, she thinks she has made a mistake and lays another. An ambitious hen, it is claimed, will lay a number of eggs before she discovers the trick.

"About 10:20 on that evening." ersted Calman.

"It takes els bours to go from bore to the mine," pursued the magistrate. "I can do it in ave on Toury."

"Not better then that, though. Well. at 12 o'clock on that night I took a drink with Boscham, the accessed in the Golden Crown. Case dismissed until we can find out who did it."

The judge clambered from the beach. an elationate structure of grocery boxes, and looked about expectantly. Calmen stepped forward

"I suggest that the fact that there mally is a Golden Crown be proved." be said genially.

"Motion sustained." erdered the judge, and the entire party retired across the street to drink with such others as might already be there at Calman's expense.

But while the evidence was beyond question and Calman accepted the allbi, he was none the less convinced that M was Beecham who had led the sttack ... Beecham not only bare a bad reputation, but he deserved it. Ever Stace he had come to Silver Springs he had besded all the villator of the little mining camp, and more than once it had been remarked that the Lucky Hole produced a surprisingly large percentage of rich ore. No one had ever been able to prove that this ore came from other mines than the one to which it was credited, but suspicion lay heavy upon Bescham, who worrled not at all.

For more than a year the Addie Etta mine had suffered from the depredations of ore thieves. As the mine was on the other side of the range, it was a surprise that Calman should have charged Beecham with the theft of the rich ore. It was impossible to take it over the range, and by the divide it was a good twenty even miles. There was plenty of richer ore nearer at hand yet Calman was positive that in Beecham be had recognized the man who had fired at him when an attempt was made to put the robbers to flight

There were three marauders in the party, and they had vanished so mysriously in their retreat that there were some who secribed to the disappearance aupernatural agencies. "We simply must find out," he insisted. "I was counting on getting married this fall, but with the reduction in the profits I am afraid that we shall not make enough to reach the bonus." "I don't mind waiting, dear," she said quietly. "But for the sake of all of us I want to see the mystery solved. and it must be solved."

Several days later Calman, coming into the office, found a little child installed there.

"Who's the youngster?" he asked carelessly."

"Beecham's little girl," she explained. "She was lost on the mountain. I found her with a sprained ankle, crying her poor little heart out. We must end ber bome." Beecham's child?" His voice was Beecham looked from her to his M the girl. Even in that moment Buth regarded bis curiously, for many things were to be read in his changing expression. Then he stretched forth his hand.

"Give me that list, Doc," he demanded, stretching out his hand for the memorandum the other had prepared. He darted from the bouse and ran rapidly toward the head of the valley. An bour later, with torn clothes and dist begrimed hands, he was back again. With the proper dressings Calman was soon made easy, and they turned to look for Beecham. He and the little girl were gone.

It was a week before he came again and Calman was able to see him. "I'm going away." be announced. "I

Endowing Two Chairs. The college president who figures in the following incident doubtless suffered a cruel shock at first, but when he found that his benefactor was acting in good faith and was thoroughly in earnest amusement over the situation must have made some light amends for his disappointment:

He was on a trip to secure an endow ment for his institution when he received this letter from Lone Tree:

President-Can you preach at Lone Tree church next Sunday and then go home with me to dinner?, Mother and me wants to endow two chairs in your college. Very truly, JONAS SMITH. Very truly,

He joyfully accepted the situation after discovering that Jonas Smith was a very wealthy farmer, to whom the endowment of two chairs would work no hardship. After the dluner which followed the sermon the conversation came to the important subject in hand. and the farmer said: "Now. I know you can buy a good, strong, stout chair for 50 cents, but we want to do more than that for the college, and mother and me have decided that we are willing to give 75 cents each to endow two chairs, one for mother and one for me."

Bilege is a starchy food-very lest-and gives you practically all the carbonaceous material necessary for your ration, but some additional starchy feed, like bominy feed and nure corameal can be fed to advantage under certain conditions. It is needless to mention the value of cloyer in furnishing you a portion of your roughage and protein. While your cows are being stall fed sliege morning and evening with clover at noon for your roughage, I consider along the line of correct feeding for dairy predts. With this combination you will need to buy only the concentrated freds to supply the necessary proteinfor you must back up the miking ability in your cows with sufficient protein otherwise your best milkers will fall far below the standard they would maintain if they were fed a ration containing plenty of protein. You would hardly expect a race borse to go his fastest pace on a corn feed or expect begs to fatten rapidly without curn, and you must not expect your dairy cows to produce their largest flow of milk on feeds deficient in protels. The concentrated feeds known as bypreducts coming from our large manufacturing establishments furnish this digestible pretein in the best form enfer. I am going to recommend the use of dried brewers' grains in which to obtain the digestible protein necessary to belence up the ration for your dairy cows.

For practical and economical feeding results I would suggest a ration of two-thirds brewers' grains with onethird crushed corn and hominy feed, and of this feed all the way from eight to twelve pounds daily, varying the amount for the individual cow according to her milk producing ability and her digestive and assimilating powers, as you have been able to judge them, for only you, the owner of the cow, and not I, a stranger, can give any definite recommendations as to the quantity to feed the individual cow. But do not fail to feed your cows enough to give them a chance at least to work their best for you. Most any cow can and will digest enough food to live on. It's the cow that can do that and then digest enough more to enturns. And the cow that cannot do that is not a good dairy cow, and you should not keep ber in your berd. But if you have cows that can do it and do it on, then you are the loser and the Illinois Institute.

The Pure Bred Sire.

Grade cows are all right. I would advise the purchase in many instances, but the grade bull has no place on the dairy farm. He may be ever so excellent, and he may come from the best family, but it is seidom advisable to keep him, says a writer in Kimball's Dairy Farmer. In the first place, he is apt to transmit the undesirable traits of his plebelan ancestors just as readily as the good truits of his more desirable ancestors. I believe that if one cannot stort in the dairy husiness with full blooded males and females he ought to have a thoroughbred sire at least. In a few years it will be an ersy matter to get a choice herd by breeding and selecting carefully.

Milking Stools.

Every milking stable should be fitted up with plenty of good milking stocks and proper places to keep them. It is astonishing how some dairymen manage to get along year after year with the makeshifts that are found in stables. Rickety old boxes that are black with fifth, broken stools of nimost any type or variety, and no place to keep them out of the dirt or out of the way. It is easy to make a good milking stool, and the cost is not great. With the proper material and a few bours' time a good comfortable lot of stools may be easily provided.

Some Dairy Rules.

If any one who expects to make dairying his business will study all the conditions and then put what he knows into practice he will make it pay. Profeesor Erf of Kansas lays down the beyearly record, weighing the milk and

Among fashionable women to whom money is no object there is a marked fancy for bracelets of original and exclusive design. A woman artist who has a genius for working in metals has seized the opportunity thus afforded and now gives her time almost entirely to the making of odd and beautiful bracelets, often using over discarded pieces of jewelry brought to her by her petroes.

Some of the most beautiful bracelets are those made of carved rose coral set in gold fillgree mountings. The best examples are uite expensive, the workmanship belt : of fine quality and executed entir ly by hand.

able Bostoria Deve It probably sounds contradictory to general practice to recommend the uring of cream immediately, after it has been elithered or expersived in or-der to provent it from developing unbabb Bavers. However, it is a spectice that can be followed with good results and is based on perfectly sound reasoning, says a writer in lowa Homestead.

The plan is based on the fact that he seen as lactic acid has developed in the milk sufficiently to give it a sour taste the unfavorable bacteria in the cream-that is, those kinds that produce these undesirable flavors are checked in their development. As is generally known, these unfavorable bacteria cannot work and reproduce themselves in an acki medium. Just as soon as the lactic acid bacteria in milk or cream have become dominant the rest of the list of undesirable forms of bacteria must take a back seat as it were.

Sour the Cresm.

Sweet cream is not necessarily good cream. We know it is a common practice to set the can of cream that is to be churned where it will cool off just as soon as possible after separating and kept at that temperature until ready to churn. It is a very commendable practice, of course, to cool the cream at once after it is separated, but if it is not to be churned for four or ave days, as is the case in places where it requires that much time to collect enough cream for a churning, it would be just as well to sour the cream after it has been thoroughly cooled.

After it has developed the right degree of acid cool it off again and hold It at a low temperature until time to churn. This is a plan which we have seen carried out successfully where it required several days to collect enough cream for churning and is one worth trying if you are annoyed with bitter or strong flavored butter-that is, when it is first churned.

The Head of the Hord. I would say to dairymen, buy a registered bull now. In less than three years you will be milking half blood dairy beifers, in less than five years you will have three-quarter bloods. then seven-eighths, and soon the herd will be practically pure bred and moner makers. In selecting a bull to bead a dairy herd one cannot be too careful. The mere fact that an animal is pure bred and registered is not enough, although very necessary. He should be from a cow that is a really first class and vexation of spirit in the American dairy animal, and both of his gran- kitchen. A good plan, too, is that ef dams and still farther back should be high class producers. It will not be necessary to buy a new bull for each dusting downs and incidental breakevery two years.—W. C. Jeffries in National Stockman and Farmer.

the department of agriculture the past year it was found the cheese that scored the highest was that which was placed in cold storage at a temperature of 32 degrees F. directly from the press. That which scored lowest was cured in a factory curing room at a temperature of 65 degrees F.

Value of Breeding.

More attention should be given to the breeding of cows by dairymen. A dairyman whose herd is once made free from tuberculosis may readily. keep it so if he grows his own supply of cows. The conditions for the sure and rapid spread of the disease are more favorable in dairy than in other herds because of the large portion of the time that dairy cows are confined in stalls in winter or at least are kept in stables even though not tied.

Cows Should Be Tested.

The dairy interest is greatly hamrered in certain states by importing into them cows that have not been tested for tuberculosis, says the American Cultivator. As long as this is permitted the dairymen who invest in such cows will have their own sorrows. They are just about certain to invest in some individuals that are affected with the disease. Such being the case, it is certain to spread.

Records of Dairy Cows. In the twenty-second annual report of the bureau of animal industry Clarence B. Lane says: The scales and the Dabcock test are essential requisites for every true dairyman. Records are valuable because they assist dairymen to distinguish the good from the poor cows, assist the feeder in preparing rations economically, give warning of the approach of sickness and give inspiration to those who watch carefully for improvement. Accurate and continuous records are necessary for best results. Examples show the impracticability of trying to determine the profitable cows by mere guesswork. One dairyman found the cow be had picked out for best to be fifth on his merit list when actual records were taken. It is demaking a fat test every seventh week. new and ravorite marquisette. German ladies are proud of being called "the most domesticated women in the world," and certainly, from the German empress down to the most humble hausfrau, the German women have due regard for what the German

The way in which German women have made domesticky into a science was well illustrated at a recent domestic exhibition, where the very newest domestic appliances and many inventions to save time and trouble were surrounded day by day by interested crowds of housewives.

Not for the German woman is the dishcloth that has been used many times, that has reposed in an insanitary heap on the kitchen sink and that is, more often than not, when left to the mercles of "merely Mary Ann," simply a dirty and unsightly remnant The German bausfrau has a bunch of dried grass, which she leaves to soult in a dish of pure cold water when she has finished with it. CHAPTER XXX.

N a certain evening about a month later the tropical rains had flooded the thoroughfares until St. Charles street needed but a Rinito and a little imagination to convert it into a watery highway of another Venice, while, as for Canal street, its name was as applicable as though it were spanned by a Bridge of Bighs.

Straws, editor and rhymester, was seated on the semioriental, semi-French gallery of the little cafe called the Veranda sipping his absinth and smoking a cheroot. Before him was paper partly covered with well nigh illegible versification and a bottle of ink. while a goose quill, tool of the tuneful nine, was expectantly polsed

"Confound it!" he said to himself. "I can't write in the attic any more since Celestina has gone, and apparently I can't write away from it. But I must stop thinking or I'll never complete this poem. Now to make my mind a blank, a titting receptucio to slashed and fastened across with ting velvet bows and the jacket fronts beld together in the same way.

A favorite way of trimming the small mushroom hat is with bouquets at the side with a bow of ribbon between them. A change from this style is to place a huge rose or a bed of leaves and buds around the rest of the hat.

Very sheer foundations are used for the new embroideries, the patterns of which are done in heavy effect. Chiffon or thin reiling is sometimes used as a foundation for holding an embroidery done with heavy floes.

Picture leghorns with large bows of flowered gauze are wonderfully alluring and cheap for a garden party bat. When the gauze is employed it does away with the necessity for the more expensive flowers.

Bracelets in yellow dull dulabed gold in openwork designs are attractive. One of these bracelets forms a spider web all round the wearer's wrist. A diamond fix and a ruby eyed spider glitter in the golden meshes.

Young girls find the jumper waint pecultarly, suited to their needs and consequently have halled it with-delight. Here is one that is as charming as it is simple. As illustrated the blouse is made of pale blue messaline, with trimming of cream lace edged with pale blue velvet.

I was sitting in front of the doctor's office when a bawk shot down with wonderful rapidity of wing-so fast that its shadow seemed hardly to reach the earth before its body. It pounced upon the doctor's favorite kitten, which lay asleep on the grass, and made of with it. At an elevation of about tifty feet puss recovered from its surprise and went to work for liberty. Its fellue mind was exercised to astonishment and wrath. Twisting like a weasel. its claws came uppermost, and to my straining gase a sight presented itself much like a feather bed being ripped open in midair. The amased hawk received new light on the subject of prey, let go and made off like a badly plucked goose, but the cut came safely to earth—on its feet.

Imitation of Ebony.

There are two processes, says the Carriage Monthly, in use in the imitation of ebony. Take a fine grained piece of wood, use French black polish, made black with fine coloring matonly a superficial coloring, and when the edges wear off the light colored wood shows. The other method is to wash three or four times any dense wood with a boiling concoction of logwood, allowing it to dry between each application. Then wash with a solution of acetate of iron, which is made by dissolving fron filings in vinegar. This stain is very black and penetrates into the wood so that ordinary wear, and chipping will not show the original.

Ants the Ideal Communists. It would perhaps be pushing metaphore to an unwarranted extreme to speak of "dignity of labor" in connection with the occupations of ants. But if by the phrase we mean that labor is the honorable lot of all citizens, and that all labors of whatever sort are upon the same level of respectability. then we might venture to apply the saying even to the labors of an ant in Harper's.

Devetion to Duty.

When the buried city of Pompell was exhumed a soldier was found standing at his post. He had probably been forgotten, and be had met his death a victim to his strict sense of discipline. The car of Russia has recently decorated a private soldier who proved himself a worthy companion to the historic Roman sentinel.

When a recent earthquake destroyed a small Russian town in central Asia this sokiler was on duty at the milltary treasury. Although the houses were crashing around him, he stood motionless, awaiting death. Fortunately a sergeant saw him and the ruins ter, or good air drying black varuish and instantly ordered him to quit his post. A Tent In the Nursery.

To make a tent in the nursery a rope or stout cord is tied across the nursery. the ends being attached to nails in opposite walls. An ordinary sheet is thrown over this and makes a capital tent. If one sheet is not found to be mifficiently large, then two are pinned together with safety pins. A few books or any small articles of weight placed on the ends of the sheet at either side will keep the tent apart at the bottom, and if the children wish to inclose the interior attogether an old curtain can be pinned across the open

The Old English Dames' Schools. The descriptions of some of the dames' and other schools of the early part of the nineteenth century are excoedingly interesting. Many of these ancient teachers were unable to write an intelligent answer to a simple question. One on being asked as to the terms on which she gave instruction replied: "Not understanding the question, I answer thus: With a view of reading the Bible." We have the authority of the late Lord Shaftesbury for the statement that one of these poor creatures, being asked if she gave moral instruction to her scholars, replied. "No. I can't afford it at 3 shillings a week." A more amusing an swer, however, was that of the teacher who was asked whether proper attention was paid to the morals of the boys under his care. His answer was that "they did not teach morals there, as they belonged to the girls' department.

The Goat's Change of Faith. Near a small Baptist church not far out of the city there lives an old Irishman who keeps a goat One day, finding the church door open, the goat wandered inside and browsed around among cushions and books, much to the detriment of those articles. The pastor chanced to catch the animal at his mischief and lost no time in going to the owner to complain. "You will have to keen that goat tied up." began the minister. "He went into my church just now and"- But we was allowed to proceed no further. The old Irishman

A Robuff For Dr. Johnson Dr. Johnson called one morning on Benjamin West to converse with him on American affairs. After some time Mr. West said that he had a young American (Gilbert Stuart) living with him, from whom he might derive some information, and introduced Stuart. The conversation continued (Stuart being thus invited to take a part in it). when the doctor observed to Mr. West that the young man spoke very good English and, turning to Stuart, rudely asked him where he had learned it. Stuart very promptly replied: "Sir, I can better tell you where I did not

AN AUTO AT HOME.

How to Rig Up One as Offered by a Funny Man.

A workingman's home is incomplete without an automobile. His children ery for it. For this reason we give below a simple rule for constructing a horseless rig at home. Already we have received thousands of letters from all over the world thanking us for this clever arrangement. Ever since publishing our easy method Tom Edison has been acting suitenly, and Nikola Tesla envies us. And, though perhaps we might jeopardize the friendship of these great men, yet we will go on publishing these scientific hints to the poor and thus enlighten those who have been groveling about in the dark so long owing to the extortionate price of gas. Here is our wonderful scheme haid bare:

Go to your family plumber and ask him for a galvanized bathtub. Owing to the stagnancy of business just at present, he will willingly give you one free of cost just to make room in his overcrowded shop. Then take the wheels from some one's wagon or private surrey and fasten them to the tub, making sure that the axies are strong enough to hold a large family.

After this has been done go to the butcher and purchase four large bolognas. Put a hole in each end, and I through one of the holes blow severely until you have blown all the meat out of the hole at the other end. When the skin is entirely meatless, blow up the skin with a bicycle pump and fasten on to the tires of the wheels. After this go down cellar and take the works out of a gas meter and fasten to the axles holding the wheels. As a gas meter keeps on going around whether you are burning gas or not. held up both hands in amazement. You will see at once that it will keep right on going when attached to the axies, causing the axies to revolve and

Put a few chairs in the tub and purchase a tin born at a povelty store. Great care must be exercised in one thing, however be sure a piece of soan has not been left in the bathtub. This might cause the chauffeur to slip up and lose control of the machine A piece of limburger cheese can be placed in the back to give it the odor of a real

The Whole Shew.

When Bubinstein was traveling through the United States upon a concert tour it chanced that Barnum's circus followed exactly the same route chosen by the great Russian. On one occasion when the train was filled with snake charmers, acrobats, clowns and the like the guard, noticing perhaps Rubinstein's remarkable appearance, asked him, "Do you belong to the show?' Turning his leonine head with a savake shake, Rubinstein flercely growled out, "Sir, I am the show!"

Aids to Humanity.

No women have done more for humanity and for the individual than the old maid reformer and the old maid aunt. There is none to whom we owe a deeper debt of gratitude and none whom we could not better spare, says a writer in the Cosmopolitan, for be sure of this, God sends old maids into the world to do the work that the rest of us leave undone.

Testing the Incane

Sir Douglas Straight told an amusing story at the dinner of the Journeymen Hairdressers' Trade society. He remembered, when a young barrister, going into a barber shop to be shaved. He was a little startled to see the woman behind the counter staring at him from time to time through the glass policeman said, "I am very glad to find you have come out," explaining that his anxiety was due to the fact that the barber came out of a lunstic asylum the previous week, and as be had been acting queerly again his relatives were wondering whether they would have to send him back to the asylum.-London Standard.

A Standing Rule.

Jones had just run over to see if Mr. and Mrs. Blank would go to the theater with them. Mrs. Blank was awfully sorry—she would so much like to go-but unfortunately Blank was out. Probably he was at the club. She would telephone. The following convergation ensued: "213A Gerrard, please. Hello! is this the — club? Is my husband there? Hello! Not there? Sure?

Charity-Would you please give a poor man a dime!

"My dear sir," replied the philanthropist, "you have not grasped the first principle of charity. A dime would be of small avail, but with $10 you could do something. Still, I am favorable to your plea. You hustle $9.90 and the desired dime is yours."

But supposing that meanwhile I starve to death?" "In that case," responded the philanthropist, "you would not even need the ten cents."-Philadelphia

Fourth's Death Roll is

New York, July 4.- Independence Day, ushered in with a racket, went out to-night in a blaze of pyrotechnical display, the most imposing and expensive that New Yorkers have ever witnessed On its brighter side the holiday was truly glorious. A smiling sun and moderate temperature brought tens of thousands to the beaches, the parks, the amusement resorts and to sports, and everywhere there was noise and funmaking.

On the darker side the police and licepital surgeons were busy all day dealing with accidents. Police to night were reckoning up the casualties from the day's cele-bration. At a late hour the list day of December, 1875, and the Twenty-third day of May, 1877, respectively; there will be sold, was not complete, but it was with the approbation of P. A.
